
Acknowledgements

The editors, Attiat F. Ott and Richard J. Cebula, would like to express their appreciation to the contributors to this volume. Not only did they graciously accept our invitation to participate but also met those 'unreasonable' deadlines we asked them to commit to. We are particularly grateful to Professor Richard Musgrave and Sir Alan Peacock for sharing with us their thoughts about the state of public economics.

Of course it goes without saying that we are grateful for the assistance we have received from Nirupama Devaraj at Clark University, Institute for Economic Studies in preparing the manuscript for publication, without whom those stringent guidelines could not have been met.