Index

action techniques and strategies conventional channels or non-institutional protest 128, 176 activity schedule of residents’ committees 98–9 ‘Administrative Grassroots Engagement system’ 5
air quality measurement scientific evidence for complaint, Fangya Garden 172 antagonistic action, commodity housing, disputes 13–14 anti-pollution campaign in Fangya Garden, Beijing 171–3 architectural preservation 35
Arendt, Hannah
‘The Revolutionary Tradition and Its Lost Treasure’ (On Revolution), 1963 25
Association for Science and Technology 116 Association of Industry and Commerce 116
audiovisual media 161
authoritarian regime in China 169 mobilization of urban grassroots 107 autonomous government system
Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 131
autonomous management by homeowners 139–40 autonomy, spatial and organization in residential neighbourhoods 9

bank account opening, difficulties 196
Beijing EPB, complaint letter to 172
Beijing Government and Community Institute (GOCO)
NGO in homeowners’ sector 190
Beijing Municipal Construction Committee 121–3
Beijing Olympics win 2001, ‘Green Olympics’ 172
Beijing Real Estate Institute 121–3 birth control, unfair treatment 168 block captains, subgroups of loyalist–activists 95–6 Bureau of Commodity Prices 155 business sector bias, in Chinese Society 185 capitalization of public-goods expenditure into land and property value 42–3 car-park charging 47
Castells, Manuel, The City and the Grassroots 26, 35 census conducting
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 90
checks-and-balances system condominium self-governance system 123–4
Chinese citizenship politics, homeowners’ protests 167 Chinese middle class
backbone of Communist Party regime 186
Chinese society development, explanatory framework 68
Chinese Trust Law 122
Chinese urban areas
‘a society of strangers’ 121 citizen identity, consciousness of 18, 181–2 citizen participation 189
civil leaders, lack of trust of 125
civil society
collective action 148–9 democracy-enriching 27
non-state sphere 26
organizations, tight control in China 116
reassertion 116
Urban China 91
weak tradition 117
civil society organizations
community newspaper 27
crime prevention program 27
neighbourhood of Chicago 27
neighbourhood watch 27
tenant association 27
civil society organizations
community newspaper 27
crime prevention program 27
neighbourhood of Chicago 27
neighbourhood watch 27
tenant association 27
civil society organizations
community newspaper 27
crime prevention program 27
neighbourhood of Chicago 27
neighbourhood watch 27
tenant association 27
club theory 49
local public goods 42
urban China 91
weak tradition 117
civil society organizations
community newspaper 27
crime prevention program 27
neighbourhood of Chicago 27
neighbourhood watch 27
tenant association 27
club theory 49
local public goods 42
urban China 91
weak tradition 117
grassroots mobilization mechanism 90
incompatible with interest-group politics 188
members, 70% of homeowners’ committee 66
mobilization mechanism 101–2
threat monitoring 31
ultimate intention to strengthen leadership 73, 82–3 Communist Youth League 92–3, 116
community building movement, 1990s 60
community governance, Renmin University 190 Community Party 92–3
compensation contract Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 133
compensation requesting, from real-estate developers 134
competitive democracy in Taiwan 33–4
complaint letter to, and threatening call from BP 171–2 ‘Comprehensive Governance Committee’
social stability, law and order 7
condominiums
collective ownership of building structure 8
dispute settlement by private means 10–11
governance practices in China 128
individual ownership of units 8
management of 117
neighbourhoods 85
conflicts between Chinese and African residents Yunshanyu case study 152 Constitution of China 169
construction quality, low level, China 52
consumer protection, absence 131
contract invalidation 137
control of Chinese society loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 92
controversial issues, hearings for 125
collective action, mobilization 138
and group size 118
dilemma 137–9
problems 119–20
collective ownership of building structure
Real Right Law, 2007 9
collective ownership of common elements 53–4
among homeowners 46
commodity housing 1, 51–2, 171
action types 13
distribution of types 13
fees and services 11–12
housing quality issues 11–12
low quality construction 10
management issues 11–12
neighbourhoods, needs 4–5
non-delivery of promised facilities 10
overpriced property services 10
privately owned, as welfare from public employers 149
public facilities and environment 11–12
common ownership of land 45
common property institutions
management regimes 50–51
common-pool resources (CPR) 50–51
assignment problems 52
fisheries, open land, wildlife, forests, ocean 50, 52
natural or man-made 119–21
Communist Party of China 90
diverse societal interests,
acknowledgement 188
grassroots mobilization mechanism 90
incompatible with interest-group politics 188
members, 70% of homeowners’ committee 66
mobilization mechanism 101–2
threat monitoring 31
ultimate intention to strengthen leadership 73, 82–3 Communist Youth League 92–3, 116
community building movement, 1990s 60
community governance, Renmin University 190
Community Party 92–3
compensation contract Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 133
compensation requesting, from real-estate developers 134
competitive democracy in Taiwan 33–4
complaint letter to, and threatening call from BP 171–2 ‘Comprehensive Governance Committee’
social stability, law and order 7
condominiums
collective ownership of building structure 8
dispute settlement by private means 10–11
governance practices in China 128
individual ownership of units 8
management of 117
neighbourhoods 85
conflicts between Chinese and African residents Yunshanyu case study 152 Constitution of China 169
construction quality, low level, China 52
consumer protection, absence 131
contract invalidation 137
control of Chinese society loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 92
controversial issues, hearings for 125
collective action, mobilization 138
and group size 118
dilemma 137–9
problems 119–20
collective ownership of building structure
Real Right Law, 2007 9
collective ownership of common elements 53–4
among homeowners 46
commodity housing 1, 51–2, 171
action types 13
distribution of types 13
fees and services 11–12
housing quality issues 11–12
low quality construction 10
management issues 11–12
neighbourhoods, needs 4–5
non-delivery of promised facilities 10
overpriced property services 10
privately owned, as welfare from public employers 149
public facilities and environment 11–12
common ownership of land 45
common property institutions
management regimes 50–51
common-pool resources (CPR) 50–51
assignment problems 52
fisheries, open land, wildlife, forests, ocean 50, 52
natural or man-made 119–21
Communist Party of China 90
diverse societal interests,
acknowledgement 188
grassroots mobilization mechanism 90
incompatible with interest-group politics 188
members, 70% of homeowners’ committee 66
mobilization mechanism 101–2
threat monitoring 31
ultimate intention to strengthen leadership 73, 82–3 Communist Youth League 92–3, 116
community building movement, 1990s 60
community governance, Renmin University 190
Community Party 92–3
compensation contract Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 133
compensation requesting, from real-estate developers 134
competitive democracy in Taiwan 33–4
complaint letter to, and threatening call from BP 171–2 ‘Comprehensive Governance Committee’
social stability, law and order 7
condominiums
collective ownership of building structure 8
dispute settlement by private means 10–11
governance practices in China 128
individual ownership of units 8
management of 117
neighbourhoods 85
conflicts between Chinese and African residents Yunshanyu case study 152 Constitution of China 169
construction quality, low level, China 52
consumer protection, absence 131
contract invalidation 137
control of Chinese society loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 92
controversial issues, hearings for 125
collective action, mobilization 138
family planning education and enforcement absence in Taiwan 31
Fangya Garden, anti-pollution actions team actions 172–3 BP company workshops 171–2 close to NIMBY situation 178 confrontational campaign 176–7
government as target for action 180 living quarters for work units 171 pollution control measures 173 gains and losses, analysis 128 game politics 134, 136–7 garbage incineration project, Guangzhou collective action repressed 175 mass media interest 175 online discussion about 173–6 Panyu district government suspension of 172–6 reasons for prosecution of authorities 173–4 gate erection to enhance safety failure of residents’ committee to prevent 80 gated communities 9
‘German Condominium Law’ 10
governance of public-goods provision 45 ‘governance’ in Western context 147 governance structure, power sharing, checks and balances 126 governance systems in private neighbourhoods 45 government commodity housing, disputes 13 investment in public good 41–2 involvement in cases A and B 160 policy delivering 99
repression 135
governmental policies, giving to residents loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 90 grassroots leadership, vital role, altruistic grounds 138 grassroots lobbying, grassroots organizations, rural China, baoja 5, 60 political pressure creating 193 protest in Sichuan province 170 Great Leap Forward, late 1950s 5 green land encroachment, collective resistance 75
group solidarity, effective defence 84 Guangdong People’s Congress, law draft and submission 193
Guangdong Property Management Ordinance, 2008 192, 194
Guangdong Provincial People’s Congress 194
Guangzhou Homeowners’
Associations Social Club 185
heads of residents’ groups, block captains 100–101
homeowner activism 69, 128, 186–7 homeowner protests, proliferation of experiences 177
‘homeowner representative System’ 115
advantages 126–7
homeowners
Beijing study 115–28
case study in Shenzhen 130–42
participation in legislation 184–98 representative model 123–6
rightful protests in China 69, 72–87, 167–82
homeowners’ associations 7–10, 53–4, 59, 76
adaption in China 17–18
conflict with residents’ committee, City Z 63–6, 74–5
customer choice in public-goods
provision 45
Jingzhou Building, Futian District,
Shenzhen 131, 133
media publicity, bargaining power enforcement 157
problems faced by 118–19
renters, disenfranchisement of 28 sites for self-government 28, 116 homeowners’ committee
implementation arm of association 124
in urban neighbourhoods 116
homeowners’ interest groups and lobbying
Beijing and Guangzhou 190–95

homeowners’ rights protection, Chinese website Baidu 133, 146
Hong Kong, land policy and real-estate market 9
Hopson Development Holdings private development company 150–51
modern multi-storey with elevators 151
no social responsibility 159 housing as a commodity 145–6 housing department, dismissal by Jingzhou Building, Futian District,
Shenzhen 130
housing market growth in China 49 housing reform in urban China 59, 167 housing sector power 189
housing supply as welfare 145
Hunan Xincheng, case study B 150, 154–8
commodity housing estate 150
developer’s private attack on individual 156
forum use for mobilization 162
homeowners’ association formation 156
Hopson Development Holdings
158–9
Internet word-spreading 156–7
property management founder,
developer 159–60
security guard violence 156 shuttle bus services changes 154–5 vigorous activism, but failure 157–8
human touch 74

identification with Communist Party
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 94
Implementation of the Real Right Law, 2010 141
collective action, residents’
committees 77
incineration technology, government incompetence 178
independence of social organisations
from state 148
from government 26–7
individual homeowners as clients 122 decision rights 125, 146
restrictive covenants 43
Indonesian RT/RW, democratized 34
information disclosure importance of 87, 96
information manipulation 68–9 interest-group perspective for Chinese society 67–8, 187–90 internal governance structure, of homeowners’ associations 123 internal security patrol 5
Internet as powerful platform 146, 181, 190 Internet use, intensification, campaign in Panyu 177 intervention
successful, Neighbourhood A, or unsuccessful 82–3 interviews, in-depth, liaison with government 33 Japan, South Korea, Singapore, Indonesia
neighbourhood organizations 31
Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen
distrustful attitudes of local government 142 experience uncommon 139
homeowners, committee for rights 134 homeowners, committee legal adviser 135 incorporation into national laws 137 mass collective action against property developer 130 nationwide attention 137
safeguarding of rights, rational 135
selling not possible 132
successful for homeowners’ rights 133–4 ‘Jingzhou model’ of property management object lesson at Remin University 137

KMT (Kuomintang) – Nationalist Party 31–2

labour organization 5
Land Bureau

homeowners’ associations legal status challenge 152 Land Resources and Real Estate Management Bureau (Land Bureau) 151 landlord-renter model 44, 47 law and order maintenance, residents’ committees 6–7 laws protecting homeowners’ rights 169 leadership of homeowners’ association 65 legal ownership determination, no rules in China 118 legal power of homeowners firing of property management company 48
legal relationships, in condominium management 121 legal rights, successful protection Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 130 legislation and legal advice 191–2 Legislation Law, 2000 189
legislative participation of homeowners 195–7 litigation
commodity housing, disputes 13–15
lobbying, direct, and grassroots 188, 191–5 local decision-making, housing estate 145 local governance in China 4, 116–17, 147–8 welfare, administrative, ownership, collective, employment-based 148 local public goods, in geographic territory 42 local public-goods provision association-member model 44 local self-governance 130
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks
active participation, reasons for doing 102–3 Communist Party 90–93
mobilizing to vote 105
neighbourhood cleaning and patrol 90
network and functions 95–108 Neighbourhood governance in urban China

recruitment from 101
warm circle 94–108
loyalists, mobilized, various groups 74

maintenance lack in China, private
neighbourhoods 46–9
management of neighbourhood 64–5 management service provider, as sole owner 47
market economy of China, social
problems 68
market game
Jingzhou Building, Futian District,
Shenzhen 131–3
media
appealing to, commodity housing, disputes 13 attention for homeowners’ groups 198
in China 146
messages from homeowners’ groups 194–5 report on social movements 161–2 sources for Jingzhou Building generation of public pressure 135 meetings as venues for mobilization 194 meetings of homeowners’, impracticality of 124 military service organization 5
mobile phone relay station installation without homeowners’ consent 81 mobilization level, high in Case A 164 motivation of loyalist activists citizen volunteerism 92
organizational dependency 93
personal connections 93
state coercion 92
multi-family housing developments,
condominium 8
Municipal Bureau of the Grassroots and Community Construction Department, 2001 61
mutual trust, lack, as genuine threat 140

National Association of Property Management Companies, 2009 189
National People’s Congress 13, 193 negotiation, commodity housing, disputes 13 neighbourhood affairs
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 97–8
neighbourhood and governance 2–5 neighbourhood associations in East and Southeast Asia, Taiwan 30–34 neighbourhood governance 16, 115, 118, 145
comparative study of housing estates 145–64
institutionalization of 59–70
sociopolitical approach 16
strengthening residential
neighbourhoods 72
neighbourhood information 111
neighbourhood leadership (lizhang)
31, 33–5
Taiwan, independence of 34–5
neighbourhood party activities recruitment as loyalist–activists 101 neighbourhood wardens, (NWs) and
state domination 31
neighbourhoods, Western and Asian 25–6
neighbourhoods as form of government 28
neighbourhoods in US cities
The Rebirth of Urban Democracy, 1993 29
Nelson, Robert, Private
Neighbourhoods, 2005 27
new rich, no government confrontation 169 newcomer recruitment
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 101
news withholding of attack on homeowner 160 newspapers 161
NIABY (not in anybody’s backyard), Panyu 179
NIMBY (not in my backyard), Fangya
Garden 178
noise and pollution problems, Fangya
Garden 171–2
Index

non-governmental organizations (NGOs) 116 non-violent actions 168 offices for Case A and Case B 160–61 online discussion forums 194
owners’ dissatisfaction, Huanan Xincheng 155 opposition of rights activism, by residents’ committees 80 organizational cohesion, effective defence 84 ownership of common areas, clarification on 196 Panyu district 173–82
government as target for action 180
querying installation of plant 179 participation dilemmas, ‘free-rider’ problem 140 participation lack, constraint 140 partnerships between government and neighbourhood 32–3 party loyalty 101–2
patrol service 44
patron-client relationship, urban societies in China 93 payment withholding of property management fees 134 peasantry of China, political passivity 92 peasants’ rights, less high levels of protection 168–9 People’s Political Consultation Committee
Huanan Xincheng case study 157 People’s Republic of China, Residents’ committees 90
personal connections 107
personal relations, personal touch warm circle loyalist–activist 104 petitioning and litigation strategies 84 planned neighbourhoods in China, big 118 planned-unit developments (PUD), private governance 40 political culture of authoritarian regime 140 political framework formation explanation 66–7 political issue in City Z 61–6 political loyalty, for selection of new leadership 66 political motivation, of rights-defending activities 76–8 political surveillance in China 31 polycentric governance system 120 positive and negative externalities, among club members 49 power forms of neighbourhoods 28 power of exercising property rights 125 power structure in Case A and Case B 163 preference revelation mechanism, local public goods 43 Preparation Committee for Beijing Union of Homeowners’ Associations assertive action 191 press commercialization 190 price reduction, flats devaluation 132 private governance in China 40 private neighbourhood spread result of privatization of goods and services in home ownership 45–6 private neighbourhoods in China 40, 50–53
club theory 41–6
failure of Tiebout model 43
legal regulation of Real Right Law 40 serving by property management companies 46 private property ownership constitutional right 9, 115
homeowners’ associations 85
newly created social space 8–10 private property rights, real estate confidence 9 private provision of public goods neoliberalist policy line 16 privatization of housing services 47 profit maximisation by management companies 48 profit pursuit by developers 121 property boom in China 189 developers in China, neighbourhood upkeep, less importance than profit generation 48 development for revenue generation 189 non-subsidized, private developers 145 management agents 77–8
companies
hidden financial anomalies 141
no ownership of individual units 47 non-cooperation 116–17
opportunism in China 47
short-term profit scramble 48 company in case A, was neutral 159–60 company, dismissal of, H & M Company 62–5 fees, no completion permit 131 property interests of homeowners 121–2 service, value measurement 48–9
trade 9
Property Management Law, 2003 9–10
Property Management Ordinance (State Council, 2007) 76
Property Management Regulations 153
property owners
establishment of homeowners’ associations 145
social status, Hopson Development Holdings 151 property ownership disputes (2003–2010) 11–12 Beijing, Guangzhou, Shenzen, Shanghai, differences 15 property rights boundaries, clarification of, 18, 51, 118, 126 property rights defence, homeowners’ associations 85 prosecution for real-estate developer Jingzhou Building, Futian District, Shenzhen 136 protection of rights 167
in social life of Chinese urbanites 167 protest tactics in Panyu 181 protests by homeowners at Urban grassroots 167 provision problems, extinction and maintenance 53 public goods and services, private provision 40, 43 public opinion abduction, social disputes, confrontation 69 public service provision in neighbourhood 16 public spirit of grassroots leaders 139 public-private partnerships 147 radical action
commodity housing, disputes 14–15
rational safeguarding of rights ‘organizational psychology’ 135 real-estate 1, 68
companies, lawyer hiring influence 189 economic and legal disputes 66
Real Right Law (2007), China condominium concept, 9–10
homeowners’ associations 13, 46–7, 122–4, 169, 190, 196
homeowners’ views, submission 193 sinking fund, 133
Regulations on Property Management, 2003 123, 137, 169
Regulations on Property Management, 2010 197
removal of residents from committee security measures 2010 World Expo 99 renewal efforts in San Francisco 26 renters’ disenfranchisement, poor models of democracy 28 renting, illegal, of common areas 50 renting out public spaces 47
rent-seeking power 68
representatives of homeowners 124–5
residential neighbourhoods, management of Shanghai, homeowners’ associations 72
Residents’ Committee Organization Law 1989 73 residents’ committees (RCs) 1, 5–6, 61 birth control, public health 6

census enumeration 6

competition with homeowners’ associations 16
corporatist structure with homeowners’ association 161

hurdles in way of activists 80–81 infrastructure power of state 7 interaction with homeowners’ associations 72 intervention of rights-defending activities 76–8, 80–81

‘right’ people as leaders 7

routine tasks, ‘women’s work’ 105

social assistance, neighbour disputes, mediation 6

staff younger and more educated 7

state domination 31

urban areas 116

resistance, collective, increase in rural and urban China 4 resistance and non-resistance space 68

resource monitoring of neighbourhood 16

restrictive covenants 43, 46, 49, 53–4

right consciousness of peasants 170

rightful resistance 167, 168–71, 178, 181

failure of authorities to uphold policies 168

limited political significance 170

peasants, rural China, government as intercessor 179–80 resistance in rural China 168 safety valve for state domination 170 rights assertion and collective action 10–15 rights consciousness 170, 179, 198

rights of homeowners and manager of trustees 122 rights-defending activities 74–8, 84

prevention of 77

role of homeowners’ associations 75–8 rivalry and excludability 41

rule consciousness to rights consciousness 170, 178–80

rural rightful resistance, petitions to higher authorities 169 scrutiny of local state 116

self-governance

novel right in China 115

system of homeowners 127–8

operation of, principles of institutional design 120–21

self-rule, local 25

service change 74

service demanders 44–5

service quality for City Z

parking spaces used by company 62

poor security, thefts 62

service quality, less attention 47

Shanghai

homeowners’ associations greater autonomy 72

homeowners’ lack of cohesion 86

Shanghai local governments sourcing temporary management companies 77

Shanghai, HIJY neighbourhood commodity housing 75

Shenzhen Municipal Housing Bureau refusal to endorse election results of homeowners’ committee 137 order to dismiss committee director 133 shuttle bus services changes, 2006 commuting times increase, protest 156 dissatisfaction cause 155

social autonomy of residents versus neighbourhood penetration 16–17 social capital in warm circle loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 106 social control, weakening capacity of state 74

social mobilization of fellow homeowners

Zou Jiajian, resident of Jingzhou Building 138–9

social movements in Western societies research on collective action 149 social service provision 4

social setting, confrontational, in urban China 73

social trust in social development 121

social workers 7
socialist (state) ownership of land 8 soft power of party state 7 softer political control 74 stakeholders and interaction 158–62 housing estate 145
standard quality tests of elevators, no pass Jingzhou 132
state
continual dominance 170
control over society 59
corporatism 32
domination, China 31
task closures 4
influence, strong, no government confrontation 169
interference in China in ‘self-governance’ of homeowners 115 political system 67
society confrontation 67
state-in-society approach 5–7, 32–3 garssroots level 16
state-socialist systems 32
state–society paradigm 2, 67–8
state–society relation, ‘conglutination’ 74
Stockholm Convention, international standards 178
Street Office Party Branch 65
support networks in neighbourhood 17 supply-side provision problems 53 suspicious incident reporting 99 Taiwan
absence of political surveillance 31
neighbourhood leadership voting 31
Taiwan Democratic People’s Party 31
Taiwan Nationalist Party 31
tax matters, unfair treatment 168 Telecommunications Ordinance of China, Article 47, 79
Tiebout model 43
democratic decision-making by demander 44
tie-in mechanism
binding covenants with unit ownership 43, 46
top-down control, costliness 25, 69
townhouse unit price, patrol service exclusion 44
trade unions 116
transaction disputes, exclusion of 11 transition economy in China 118 transitional urban China
comparative study of housing estates 145–64
trust assets 121–2
‘Trusteeship of Property Management System’ 115, 121–3, 126
trusteeship property management model 121–3
urban commons concept 16
urban commons creation in China and neighbourhood governance 40
urban democracy in Asia, ultra-local 34
urban governance, differentiated and neighbourhood 146–9
urban middle-class activism 148–9
urban neighbourhoods
institutional identification in 90–109
local government control 86
urban social movement 16, 26
urban social structure changes 59 villagers’ committee 116 violent actions, high-risk 169
volunteer groups 84–5
warm circle
self-sufficient and loyal 94–5
warm circle and loyalist–activists 100–107
water, electricity, gas supply, failure
Jingzhou Building, Futian District,
Shenzhen 131
websites 161
‘welfare housing’ 145
Western governance theory 147
women, elderly
warm circle, loyalist–activists 102–7
women, retired, low income loyalist–activists 100
women's federations 116
work unit (danwei) system 5, 74 hierarchical chain of command 3
loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 90–91
unit of social management 59–60 working homeowners’ association replacement with state-sponsored one 81 working-class backgrounds ‘politically trustworthy’ 102 work-unit system, collapse, 1990s 4
World Expo in Shanghai loyalist–activist (jiji fenzi) networks 90
World Expo in Shanghai, 2010 99

Yunshanyu case study 151 apartments in multi-storey buildings, no elevators 150 drug dealing, kidnapping, theft 153 homeowners’ association, Mr W convenor 151 homeowners’ association establishment 154 homogeneous property owners 150 mobilization activities 151–2 no legal regulations for homeowners’ associations 152 noise of decoration of homes 152 property management office 154 property management, private company 150 residential estate for teachers 150 residents’ committee support 161 residents’ committees, duties 153–4 thefts, case for homeowners’ association 152

Zou Jiajian, resident of Jingzhou Building 131–42, 140
‘Golden Pen Award’ as amateur journalist 138 Internet posting of elevator scene 135 property homeowners’ rights website 138 skilful communicator, good relationships 138 sued for libel, fined, case lost 135–6