Contributors

Serdal Bahçe is an Associate Professor at the Department of Public Finance of Ankara University. He obtained his BSc degree from the Department of Computer Engineering at Middle East Technical University in 1994. He completed the Master’s program and PhD at the Department of Economics in the same university in 1998 and 2003 respectively.

Ahmet Benlialper is currently conducting PhD studies at Middle East Technical University (METU). He obtained his Bachelor’s degree from Bilkent University, Department of Mathematics and completed an MSc at the Department of Economics at METU. Since 2013 he has also worked as a research assistant in Ipek University, Department of Economics.

Hasan Cömert is an Assistant Professor of Economics in the Department of Economics at Middle East Technical University (METU), Turkey. Cömert received his PhD from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in 2011. His research interests include central banking, financial markets, financial flows, developing countries and the Turkish economy. Among other publications, he is the author of Central Banks and Financial Markets: The Declining Power of US Monetary Policy (Edward Elgar Publishing, 2013). He has contributed to different working packages in the FESSUD project as a researcher.

Mehmet Selman Çolak is a PhD student in Economics at Middle East Technical University (METU), Turkey. He holds an MSc in Economics at the same institution. He is also a former research assistant in Economics at METU. He obtained a Bachelor’s degree in Economics from Bilkent University, Ankara.

Orlando Justo (PhD in Economics, New School for Social Research, New York, 2013) is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Business Management at BMCC/City University of New York. His research works and publications have focused on topics in international economics and business, particularly within Latin America and transitional economies.

Ahmet Haşim Köse is a Professor at the Department of Economics, Ankara University, Turkey. His research interests are political economy and development economics. He has published books and articles on political economy of Turkey, labor markets and income distributions. He co-authored a book with Fikret Şenses and Erinç Yeldan; Neoliberal Globalization as New Imperialism: Case Studies on Reconstruction of the Periphery (Nova Publishers, 2007).

Rex A. McKenzie was trained at the New School for Social Research in New York, USA. His 2006 PhD thesis was entitled ‘Three essays in the political economy of the English speaking Caribbean’. He has held Lecturer, Assistant Professor and Senior Researcher posts in Economics at the University of Technology, Kingston Jamaica, Purchase College, SUNY, New York, USA and the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. He has four main research interests: political economy of development, political economy of finance, political economy of small island states and the history of economic thought.

Andre de Melo Modenesi is an Associate Professor at the Institute of Economics of the Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro (IE/UFRJ) and researcher at the CNPq. He holds a PhD in Economics (UFRJ), a Master’s of Arts in Economics (Universidade Federal Fluminense), and Bachelor’s degrees in Economics (Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Rio de Janeiro) and in Social Sciences (Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro).

Rui Lyrio Modenesi is a former Under Secretary of Economic Policy of the Ministry of Finance, was Head of Department at the Brazilian Development Bank, and Associate Professor at the Fluminense Federal University. He was also Under Secretary of the Commission on Tariff Policy, Minister of Finance, and Senior Researcher at the Instituto de Política Econômica Aplicada (IPEA). He holds a Master’s degree in Economics (Fundação Getúlio Vargas) and a Bachelor’s degree in Economics and Law.

Shankaran Nambiar is a Senior Research Fellow at the Malaysian Institute of Economic Research. He has been a consultant for the Ministries of Finance, International Trade and Industry, and Domestic Trade and Consumer Affairs as well as for multilateral organizations such as UNECLAC, UNESCAP, ILO, ADBI and the ASEAN Secretariat. He has also been a visiting scholar with the IMF. He holds Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees in Economics from the Universities of Madras and Delhi, respectively. He obtained his PhD in Economics from Universiti Sains Malaysia.

Marcos Reis is an Associate Professor of Economics at the National Institute of Higher Studies (IAEN), Ecuador. He is also a senior economist at the Center for Strategic Foresight (CEPROEC) at the same institution. He holds a PhD in Economics from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ) and was a visiting scholar at the Institute of Latin American Studies (ILAS) at Columbia University.
Contributors

Juan E. Santarcángelo is a researcher of the Consejo Nacional de Investigaciones Económicas y Técnicas (CONICET) and a professor at the Universidad Nacional de Quilmes in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Esra Nur Uğurlu is a Master’s student in International Economics in the EPOG (Economic Policies in the Age of Globalisation) program. During the program, she has been based in the Berlin School of Economics and Law and Université of Paris 13. She obtained Bachelor’s degree in Economics from Middle East Technical University, Turkey.