Contributors

Jeroen Achterhof, Master’s student in Econometrics, Operations Research and Actuarial Studies at the University of Groningen. His research interests include actuarial science and sports economics.

Madeleine Andreff, former Senior Lecturer in Econometrics and Statistics at the University Paris Est, Marne-la-Vallée. Author of several articles in sports economics.

Xiao Gang Che, Lecturer (Assistant Professor) at Durham University Business School (UK). His research interests are applied microeconomic theory, applied game theory, auctions, and contest. He has published in several scientific journals such as Mathematical Social Sciences and Economics Letters.

Julio del Corral, Associate Professor at the University of Castilla-La Mancha, Campus of Ciudad Real in the Department of Economic Analysis and Finance. His research interests are efficiency and productivity analysis, sports economics and applied econometrics. He has published in several scientific journals such as Journal of Sports Economics, International Journal of Forecasting and Food Policy.

David Forrest, Honorary Professor in Economics in the University of Liverpool (UK) and Honorary Professor at Macau Polytechnic Institute. He specializes in analysis of the sports and gambling industries. He is experienced in working with the gambling sector, including research and advisory activities for the Responsible Gambling Trust and the UK Gambling Commission. He contributes substantially to literature on sport and gambling markets. Outlets include such as Economic Inquiry, Southern Economic Journal, Scottish Journal of Political Economy, International Journal of Forecasting and European Journal of Operational Research.

Bernd Frick, Professor of Organizational, Media, and Sports Economics in the Department of Management and Vice-President of the University of Paderborn, Germany. He has published more than 60 refereed papers in peer-reviewed journals and is currently working on a monograph entitled ‘Conquering the pitch: the economics of the world’s greatest team sport’.

Pedro García-del-Barrio, Associate Professor of Economics and Vice-Dean in the School of Economics and Social Sciences at the Universitat Internacional de Catalunya (UIC). He has collaborated in developing a methodology for evaluating media value in sports and is currently the academic director of MERIT Social Value. His research interests include labour and sports economics. Recent publications include papers in journals such as Economic Modelling, Managerial and Decision Economics, Journal of Sports Economics, Journal of Productivity Analysis, Review of Industrial Organization and Journal of Economics.

Colin Green, Professor of Economics at the Lancaster University Management School. His research interests cover labour, education, personnel and health. He is currently Co-editor of Education Economics, Associate Editor of Journal of Economic Behavior and Organization and organizes the annual International Workshop on Applied Economics of Education. He has published a range of articles in journals such as Journal of Health Economics, Oxford Economic Papers, British Journal of Industrial Relations, Economica, Labour Economics and Economic Inquiry.

Brad R. Humphreys is on the faculty in the Department of Economics, College of Business and Economics, at West Virginia University. He has published more than 80 articles on sports economics, sport finance, and other topics in peer-reviewed journals in economics and public policy. He is on the editorial board of the Journal of Sports Economics and serves as Editor-in-chief. of Contemporary Economic Policy. He is a past president of the North American Association of Sports Economists.

Stefan Késenne, Emeritus Professor of Economics at the University of Antwerp and KU Leuven, Belgium. He has published in numerous specialized journals such as the European Economic Review, Journal of Industrial Economics, Scottish Journal of Political Economy, Journal of Sports Economics and the European Sports Management Quarterly. He is also the author of the book The Economic Theory of Professional Team Sport: An Analytical Treatment.

Ruud Koning, Professor of Sport Economics at the University of Groningen. He is on the editorial boards of International Journal of Sports Finance and Journal of Quantitative Analysis of Sports. His research interests are sports economics and (applied) econometrics.

Ian G. McHale, Reader in Statistics at the University of Manchester, UK. Ian was creator of the official player ratings system of the English Premier League, the EA SPORTS Player Performance Index. He is Chair of the Statistics in Sport Section of the Royal Statistical Society. His research interests include statistics in sport and the analysis of gambling markets and various gambling issues. He has published in a wide range of journals including: the Journal of the Royal Statistical Society (Series A), the International Journal of Forecasting, Economics Letters and the European Journal of Operational Research and serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Quantitative Analysis of Sports.

Juan Prieto-Rodríguez, Professor of Economics at the University of Oviedo. His main fields of research focus on sports economics, cultural economics, labour economics and public economics. He has published in numerous scientific journals such as Journal of Sports Economics, Journal of Cultural Economics, International Journal of Public Policy and Applied Economics. He is also the current Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Association for Cultural Economics International.

Francesc Pujol, Degree in Economics from the University of Fribourg (Switzerland) and the University of Barcelona, and a PhD in Economics from the University of Geneva. For his thesis he received the ‘Edouard Folliet 2001’ Award. A specialist in public deficit, budgetary discipline and fiscal determinants of ethics, in recent years he has been involved in the development of the Group for Research in Economics, Sport and Intangibles (ESIrg), which determines, among other things, the media value and price of athletes.

Plácido Rodríguez, Professor EU of Economics, Department of Economics, University of Oviedo. Co-editor of the books Sports Economics after Fifty Years: Essays in Honour of Simon Rottenberg, The Economics of Sport, Health and Happiness and The Econometrics of Sport. He was president of Real Sporting de Gijón Football Club and the current Director of the Sports Economics Observatory Foundation.

Ismael Sanz, Associate Professor, Department of Applied Economics, Faculty of Social Sciences and Law, University Rey Juan Carlos. He has made several research stays at the University of California Santa Barbara, the Australian National University, Real Colegio Complutense at Harvard University and the University of Nottingham. He has published papers in national and international journals and reports for the World Bank and the Department of Treasury of New Zealand.

Friedrich Scheel, PhD student, Department of Organization, Media and Sport Economy, Faculty of Economics, University of Paderborn, Germany. He is a lecturer and is responsible for several courses and seminars. He studies gender differences in competitive sports settings.

Robert Simmons, Professor of Economics at the Lancaster University Management School (UK). He is an expert in the economics of the game, sports and labor economics. He has advised the International Labour Organization. He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Sports Economics and editor of the International Journal of Sport Finance. He has published several papers in journals such as Contemporary Economic Policy, Applied Economics and Review of Economics and Statistics.

Stefan Szymanski, Stephen J. Galetti Collegiate Professor of Sport Management and Co-Director, Michigan Center for Sport Management at the University of Michigan. He has published several books and many papers on the business of sport. His areas of interest are: sports management and
Contributors

J.D. Tena (PhD, Economics, University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne) is a visiting professor at Universidad Carlos III, Spain, and researcher at Università di Sassari, Italy. He also serves as a forecasting consultant for Instituto Flores de Lemus, Spain. His research focus is applied econometrics, with an emphasis on sport economics, labour economics and forecasting. His articles have appeared in journals such as European Economic Review, International Journal of Forecasting, European Journal of Operational Research, Empirical Economics, International Regional Science Review and Economic Modelling.

Fernando Tenreiro, Professor of Economics of Sport and Sport Development Policies, Universidade Lusíada de Lisboa (Portugal). His research interests are in the economic importance of sport and economics of sport federations.

Carlos Varela-Quintana, former Adjunct Professor at the University of Oviedo. Presently he is a marketing consultant for InvesMark SL and a PhD student at the University of Oviedo. His fields of specialization are market research, labour economics and sports economics.