

Contents

List of contributors	vi
Introduction: theorizing the G20 Steven Slaughter	1
1 Liberal theory, liberal context and the G20 Alan S. Alexandroff	16
2 The G20 and realist International Relations theory Steven Slaughter	37
3 Rational choice and the G20 Felicity Vabulas	56
4 The G20 and the English School Tristen Naylor	77
5 A constructivist approach to the G20 Jonathan Luckhurst	95
6 The G20 through the lens of historical institutionalism Lora Anne Viola	116
7 A nébuleuse for a new world order? The G20 from a neo-Gramscian perspective Tom Chodor	135
8 Feminist approaches to global economic governance: the G20 as a platform for step change? Susan Harris Rimmer and Caitlin Byrne	157
9 Green theory and the G20 Kyla Tienhaara and Christian Downie	183
Conclusion: International Relations theory and the future of the G20 Steven Slaughter	208
Index	217