
Tables

2.1	Rachel's transitions map through university	25
3.1	Bridging the divide	36
4.1	Forms of academic labour and their implications	56
6.1	Coding results of 22 reflective essays showing when geographic concepts overlapped with traits of threshold concepts (integrative, transformative), deep thinking (thinking expanded, or thinking geographically)	80
7.1	Changing Landscapes: time line of field trips	92
11.1	Undergraduate geography students' exposure to ethical issues within and beyond the curriculum throughout the student experience	142
12.1	Coverage of information-literacy skills within a year 2 research-skills methods course	160
13.1	Applying the inclusive curriculum framework to rural geography	177
14.1	Prompt questions to establish the context for a 'student-researcher' framework in an assessment, module, programme or department	186
14.2	Practices of effective undergraduate research mentors	194
18.1	Enrolled students by gender and degree programme	245
18.2	Student poster content summarising small group discussion on the provision of designated rivers for Hindu and Sikh cremation ash scattering in the UK	247
20.1	Definitions of key concepts linked to internationalisation	270
20.2	'Arid Zone Environments' module topics employed for the integration of internationalisation and global citizenship concepts	273
20.3	How internationalisation and global citizenship are addressed in four key module themes	275
20.4	The 'Ethical Geographer and Geographical Imagination' module in relation to international and intercultural pedagogy, and their integration with geographical content	277
21.1	Exemplar GIS core competencies validated in the NEXTREADY system	293
29.1	Work-related student learning activities arranged into levels reflecting degrees of work engagement	399
31.1	The top five geographical skills sought by employers across a range of organisations in the USA	432
31.2	Examples of knowledge, skills and attributes that are desirable to foster in geography students	434
31.3	Strategies to promote embedding graduate attributes in geography curricula	436
31.4	Example of a simple curriculum map in geography for selected attributes in a three-year degree	437
32.1(a)	Sample career exploration worksheet	448
32.1(b)	Sample gap analysis matrix	449