Oliver Laasch is a Senior Lecturer in Entrepreneurship and Innovation at the University of Manchester and holds visiting positions at the University of Nottingham Ningbo China, the University of Tübingen's Global Ethic Institute, and is a Governing Responsible Business Research Fellow at Copenhagen Business School. Oliver has lead-authored the United Nations Principles for Responsible Management Education (PRME) initiative's first official textbook Principles of Responsible Management (translated to Spanish, Portuguese, Chinese and available in an Indian edition). He has edited two inspirational guides of the PRME and 27 books as editor of the PRME/BEP book collection. Oliver is founder of the Center for Responsible Management Education (<http://responsiblemanagement.net/>) as well as co-convenor of the Responsible Management Education in Action workshop series delivered at the Academy of Management (AOM) (annually since 2014), which won the AOM Management Education and Development division's best PDW award in 2014. In 2016, the paper 'Income inequality: Value flow analysis, market narratives, and organizational practice' co-authored by Oliver, won the best paper award of the Academy of Management Social Issues in Management Division. Oliver is currently lead-editing the Journal of Business Ethics Special Issue on Responsible Management Learning, runs the Coursera MOOC Managing Responsibly and serves on the editorial board of Academy of Management Learning and Education. He holds a PhD in management and innovation from the University of Manchester.

Roy Suddaby is an influential and top-cited business scholar with a passion for organizational research and teaching. Roy serves as the Francis G. Winspear Chair at the University of Victoria, is the Chair in Organization Theory at the University of Liverpool Management School and an honorary professor at Copenhagen Business School.

Roy's current research seeks to understand how corporations are adapting to changing global norms and expectations. His research focuses on organizational change and where it intersects with business and society. His current research examines the changing role of the multi-national corporation. He is interested in understanding the various ways in which corporations mimic the function and role of the nation state – that is, corporate art collections, corporate history and museums, corporate universities and corporate social responsibility. His goal is to find the justification for this behaviour, which goes beyond the financial bottom line and into organizational intangibles such as establishing meaning, values and culture.

Roy is the outgoing editor of the Academy of Management Review and has served as editor or guest editor for several journals. His research can be found in numerous academic journals, including the Administrative Sciences Quarterly, Journal of Business Venturing, Journal of Management Studies, and the Academy of Management Journal. He has won best paper awards from the Academy of Management Journal, Administrative Science Quarterly, and the Administrative Sciences Association of Canada as well as the Greif Research Impact Award from the Academy of Management. Roy is a recipient of the Distinguished Scholar Award by the Administrative Sciences Association of Canada.

R. Edward Freeman is University Professor, Elis and Signe Olsson Professor, Academic Director of the Institute for Business in Society, and Senior Fellow of the Olsson Center for Applied Ethics at the University of Virginia Darden School of Business. He is best known for his award-winning book, Strategic Management: A Stakeholder Approach (Pitman, 1984; and reprinted by Cambridge University Press in 2010). His latest books are Responsible Business, with Bidhan Parmar and Kirsten Martin, forthcoming from Columbia University Press in 2020; The Cambridge Handbook of Stakeholder Theory with Jeffrey Harrison, Jay Barney and Robert Phillips, Cambridge University Press in 2019; Research Approaches to Business Ethics and Corporate Responsibility with Patricia Werhane and Sergiy Dmytriiev, Cambridge University Press in 2017, and Bridging the Values Gap with Ellen Auster and Barrett Koehler in 2015. He has received six honorary doctorates (Doctor Honoris Causa) from: Radboud University in the Netherlands; Universidad Pontificia Comillas in Spain; the Hanken School of Economics, and Tampere University in Finland; Sherbrooke University in Canada; and, Leuphana University in Germany, for his work on stakeholder theory and business ethics. Freeman is Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Business Ethics, one of the leading journals in business ethics. He is a lifelong student of philosophy, martial arts and the blues. Freeman is a founding member of Red Goat Records (redgoatrecords.com) bringing the joy of original soul and rhythm and blues music into the twenty-first century.

Dima Jamali is Professor in the Olayan School of Business, American University of Beirut (AUB) and currently holding the Kamal Shair Chair in Responsible Leadership and serving as Associate Dean for Research and Faculty Development. She has a PhD in Social Policy and Administration, from the University of Kent at Canterbury, UK. Her research and teaching revolve primarily around Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and Social Entrepreneurship (SE). She is the author and editor of four books (CSR in the Middle East – Palgrave, 2012; Social Entrepreneurship in the Middle East – Palgrave, 2015; Development Oriented CSR – Greenleaf, 2015; and Comparative Perspectives on Global Corporate Social Responsibility – IGI, 2016), and over 80 high-level international publications, focusing on various aspects of sustainability and sustainable development and CSR in developing countries in general and in the Middle East specifically. She is the winner of the 2016 National Council for Scientific Research Excellence Award, and the 2015 Aspen Institute Faculty Pioneer Award, dubbed by the Financial Times as ‘the Oscars of the Business School World’ for pioneering faculty who are at the cutting edge of teaching and scholarship in their field. She was also designated as Personality of the Year for CSR by the Arab Organization for Social Responsibility in 2015. She is winner of the 2010 Shoman Prize for best young Arab researcher, which recognizes distinctive scientific works addressing priority issues at the local, regional and international levels. In 2013, Dr Jamali was selected for the Eisenhower Fellows Program, joining a global network of leading professionals committed to collaborate for a more prosperous, just and peaceful world; she was also selected in 2007 for the British Academy of Management Fellowship for South Asia and the Middle East which supports exceptional scholars from the Middle East. Since late 2017, Dr Jamali has been a member of the Lebanese Parliament.
